Introduction

The National Aboriginal Forestry Association is pleased to release the first printed edition of the National Aboriginal Forest Sector Directory. This directory profiles 150 Aboriginal forest-based businesses and Aboriginal organizations that support development of the Aboriginal forest sector. It is not a comprehensive listing of all companies and organizations as we estimate that there are 1200-1400 Aboriginal forest-based companies across the country of varying size and in varying stages of development. Therefore, we consider the directory to be work in progress as the listings will no doubt grow in number over time once the directory is distributed and its purpose becomes more evident to the potential users.

To promote Aboriginal business development in the forest sector is the broad purpose of the directory. Listings are limited to Aboriginal businesses including those owned by a First Nation or band, a Tribal Council, an entity representing an Aboriginal community, or individual Aboriginal persons, and may take the form of a sole proprietorship, a limited company, a co-operative, or a partnership or joint venture in which Aboriginal persons have at least 50 percent ownership. It also includes governmental and non-governmental organizations that have a mandate to support Aboriginal forest-based development. Essentially the directory is a marketing and reference tool intended to give increased visibility of the products and services of the listed companies. The added exposure provided by the National Aboriginal Forest Sector Directory will prove helpful in finding customers for the listed enterprises. It will help connect these enterprises with buyers, distributors and potential partners and contribute to growth and diversification in the Aboriginal forest economy.

For easy reference, the directory first lists companies by business categories which will mean that most companies will be listed in two or more categories. Secondly, the companies are listed alphabetically by province. In the second listing you will find more detailed information on the company as provided or approved by the company itself.

If your company is not included in this printed version and it meets the criteria provided in the previous paragraph, you can add your company profile through the on-line version of the directory at www.nafaforestry.org.

We hope that you find the National Aboriginal Forest Sector Directory useful.
